

Exhaust System Repair in Arizona

 iautohaus.com/exhaust-system-repair-arizona

Placed underneath your vehicle the car exhaust system is primarily responsible for getting rid of the harmful emissions produced during the combustion of the fuel in the engine. The exhaust system is composed of the tubing and piping. Its manifold receives the emissions from the engine and takes the gases to the front of the exhaust through the catalytic converter. The catalytic converter then transforms the harmful gases into less harmful by-products that are released into the atmosphere. The system also has a muffler that cancels out the loud car noise. Given the importance of the system, that is why we, iAUTOHAUS, your ultimate exhaust system repair in Arizona goes the extra mile to ensure that your exhaust system is working well. At iAUTOHAUS, we perform exhaust system repair services for luxury European cars in Arizona. When Should You Come for Exhaust Repair Services

We recommend that you come for exhaust system repair service if you notice any of the following:

When you hear a vibration

If you notice some vibration when running the car or coming to a stop, it could be as a result of a hole, a leakage or a disconnection in the exhaust system. The noise may be followed by some rumbling if there is a large damaged area. We inspect to iron out any exhaust problem.

Penny clunking noise when the car is idling

If you hear a noise like someone shaking a metal box filled with pennies when the car is idling, it may be a problem with the catalytic converter system. Some car models also light up the check engine warning on the dashboard.

Fuel inefficiency

In addition to other problems, your car exhaust system damage may cause fuel inefficiency in your system. When there is a leak in the exhaust system, the motor tends to work harder, thereby, consuming more fuel. Let us inspect the exhaust system as part of the diagnosis.
